Hence, soon among the Egyptians as among b other nations, revolution and civil war arose, between those who gave up polytheistic error and turned to the Word of Christ, and those who warred with them, urged on by their own daemons, so that brothers were parted one from the other, and the dearest fought together because of the Gospel of Christ, for the oracle says, "And Egyptians shall rise against Egyptians, and a man shall fight with his brother, and a c man with his neighbour. For He saved without aid from any one those that had gone before Him even to the gates of death, healed them and rescued them from their destruction. And he therefore says thus:.

Heistotakethevictiminhishandsandgowithallspeedtothepurification.W There seems to be something corrupt in the text. It is that the gods have pronounced Christ to have been most holy and immortal, and they speak of Him reverently. It was surely His works that are written in the Holy Gospels, and it was clearly His Birth from the Virgin Tabernacle whence he sprang, and how "being in the form of God, he thought it not a thing to be grasped at to be equal with God, but emptied himself, taking the form of a slave," and it was the miracles He performed among men, and the insults offered to Him by the Jewish race that Eusebius of Caesarea: Demonstratio Evangelica (The Proof of the Gospel) prophet anticipated with the eyes of his soul; and learning of the Holy Spirit his Teacher what would accrue to minds purified from sin, he confessed that he was astonished and afraid at what he heard, and said, "Lord, I have heard thy report, and I was afraid, I understood thy works, and was astonished.

And yet how would not quite reasonably be able to explain how the disciples "the incense and offering to be offered to God in every place," what else can he mean, but that no longer in Jerusalem nor exclusively in that sacred place, but in every land and among all nations they will offer to the Supreme God the, incense of prayer and the sacrifice called "pure," because it is not a sacrifice of blood but of good works? And supposing He was a magician and a charlatan, a charlatan and a sorcerer, how could He have become the source to all the nations of such teaching, as we ourselves see with our eyes, and hear even now with our ears?
