There are no discussion topics on this book. This letting loose has led to all kinds of illogical and irrational behavior.

The words "his" and "holy" stress the unique origin of the gospel. And I see the It has to do with the maturity of the body and when it is matured: This is an example of the figure of speech called litotes in which one sets forth a positive idea "I am proud of the gospel" by expressing its negative opposite "I am not ashamed of the gospel" to stress the positive idea. It looks at the promise of a Savior in the Old Testament, reviews Paul's ministry to date, and surveys the religious history of the Gentile world. No one seeks after God for His own sake. God bestows justification freely as a gift. The only way that our eternal future can be guaranteed is if it rests on God's grace.
